City Car Driving is a classic car racing game, designed to make the player feel like a true driver in a car. Feel the rush as your compete for top position in this licensed racing game. Features: Driver Control: A huge variety of cars, each with their own control systems Realistic Drive: Dash against other cars for a chance to overtake on the road Different Levels of Competition: From your home and practice driving to driving for ranking in a racing event Simulation: Though the game's racing will seem like arcade racing, the game's physics and control will make sure you feel like you are really driving a real car in the real world. Extremely Light Control: When it comes to big heavy cars, players can use just a few buttons to steer. Fun: Very much like a real driving game, except on this game, you can really race against other drivers online, while on vehicles like the Audi A4, McLaren MP4-12C, BMW M3 and Lexus RC 300h your passengers can do fun things like get down and dance on the dashboard or have a snowball fight on the roof. Easy to learn, easy to master: With the easy-to-learn auto controls, you're not going to have to spend a day of your life just learning the controls. CITY CAR DRIVING: THE OFFICIAL CITIZEN MIRROR EDITION DESIGNED BY: NATOMAR ALFAGARAN PRODUCTION: AUTOMOTIVE CIRCUIT CINEMA LICENSE: COPYRIGHTED PUBLISHED BY CITY CAR DRIVING LIMITEDQ: Executing methods with delay or any timeout I have some methods that must be executed in the background with some delay. I have searched a lot and found this java.util.Timer. But I found very hard to understand its working/how to call it. My current class has only these methods. public void method1(){ method2(); } public void method2(){ .... } public void method3(){ .... } Then there is another class in which I'm setting up Timer class TimerClass{ int timeBeforeCalling; int timeBeforeCompleting(int timeBeforeCalling){ return timeBeforeCalling
