I am developing a web application using ASP.NET. I am using JQuery to display messages on the page when some event takes place. In the textbox I use (tbComment), I would like the message I display to be similar to how the message here looks - This message is displayed in the following code: $('#tbComment').val("This message is displayed in the following code:"); The problem is, if no message is displayed, it looks like this: I want it to look something like this I have tried a few solutions on stackoverflow, but they don't seem to work. For example, this is how I tried to do it. if ($("#tbComment").val() == "") { $('#tbComment').val(" "); } But it just adds blank space, nothing changes in the textbox. Is there anyway to fix this? A: I guess I could be more descriptive of what's wrong here than 'x doesn't work'. Look at this: var x = document.getElementById("tbComment"); $('#tbComment').val(" This message is displayed in the following code:"); x.value = " "; Okay, that's neat. So, what is wrong in this fiddle? At first look, I would think that changing the value property of the textbox would work for you. But that wouldn't work because of this comment: The default value of the text property is an empty string. So, what does work? This code: var x = document.getElementById("tbComment"); $('#tbComment').val(" ");

Arsenal take advantage of Juve loss by Mikael Andersson | May 19, 2014 The club also released a statement saying Sarri does not speak "at all" to anyone other than Sir Alex. He added: "He's just a normal coach who is going to get closer to the players and the club. "I have nothing to add to this." Sarri caused a stir at Chelsea when, as a member of the Roma management team, he was responsible for the signing of Mario Gomez. Arsenal's Premier League title challenge has been overshadowed by a series of transfer sagas. The signing of Cech and Mesut Ozil have helped them reclaim the top spot, and Giroud could be set for a move to Chelsea or to the United States. Much of the blame for Chelsea's deficiencies has been placed on the shoulders of Jose Mourinho, whose handling of the transfer embargo has been widely condemned. He has since been given until the end of the season to end his 16-month spell in charge. Sarri, who had replaced Roberto Mancini at Fiorentina, was sacked at the end of the season. Mourinho said that he was still keeping tabs on Sarri's situation, according to The Independent., at least not before the match. Where the Ravens proved they can be competitive is on defense. The defense matches up very nicely with the Browns average quarterback and their pass-happy scheme, as the Ravens held Cleveland to just 117 yards of total offense in Week 1. The Browns have an even more pass-happy offense, but so does the Ravens defense, and that's a problem. The Redskins might be more of a challenge for the Ravens, but the Ravens will be facing a Detroit squad that has struggled on the road this season, and their second-half performances have been lackluster. Baltimore's D will need to be playing at its best for the Ravens to pull off the upset. Pick: Ravens 28, Colts 10 Kirk Cousins, Redskins Andy Lyons/Getty Images The Redskins are not on anyone's list of playoff teams. They currently sit atop the abysmal NFC East at 8-4, but the talent disparity between Washington and all of its division rivals is beginning to take its toll. The Redskins have dropped five of six games, and their two victories have come from very strong teams like the Patriots and Rams. Washington is 4-1 at home

Q: Every irreducible character of a group algebra is a character Let G be a group and χ be an irreducible character of the group algebra $\mathbb{C}[G]$. Then is χ a character? I think it is true but I couldn't prove it. A: No: take $G=S_3$ and χ a character of degree 1. Suppose that K is the kernel of χ and that H is the socle of K . Then the left multiplication by elements of H is a linear endomorphism and since H is simple, the image of the multiplication by a non-zero element $g \in H$ must be a proper ideal of $\mathbb{C}[S_3]$. Since the module of the left multiplication by g is simple, it must be zero. But this is a contradiction since the socle is simple. Neuroblastoma in a child with oculomotor nerve palsy. We report the case of a boy with bilateral neuroblastoma, who presented with an isolated left oculomotor nerve palsy due to encasement. He was treated with chemotherapy, but he died of tumor progression. Four months later, magnetic resonance imaging showed a tumor extension on the seventh cervical vertebra with bone erosion and edema. Pathologic examination of a bone marrow biopsy confirmed the diagnosis of neuroblastoma. This case demonstrates that isolated oculomotor nerve palsy is a rare initial sign of neuroblastoma, especially in pediatric patients, and that magnetic resonance imaging is useful to rule out distant metastases. Q: Can you have an iterator that moves through the characters of a string? In C++, can I have an iterator that moves through the characters of a string? A: No, that's not possible. A sequence of characters is not a sequence of items. (Note: The technical term for an iterator is "simple iterator".) A string is a sequence of items, namely, characters. The iterator you're thinking of moves through a sequence of characters, not through a sequence of items. An `std::string` is essentially a `std::vector`. That is, the string type is a sequence of characters, and the iterator it returns is a `std::vector::`
