The problem is the page that it shows does not match with the page I want and I don't know how to correct this. I have a site where you can do a search and the search has a drop down for making a payment. If I select Cash Paypal Visa Master Card It will redirect me to a page where I enter a password and then it will show another page with additional information of the search. When I click submit it will redirect me to the previously mentioned page. Now what I want to do is after clicking submit I want to be redirected to the page where I enter my password, but with the information I entered on the search, not the page that I am redirected to where I enter my password. I have tried adding #our
