Add in-flight entertainment and web accessibility in the first quarter of this decade. Microsoft PowerPoint games are always a hit with students. That's because they have a long history of helping students get better grades. For many of them, a game on the test is a great way to prove that they really know the material they've been learning. So, it's no surprise that Microsoft has added new features to the PowerPoint game a new and improved game that's designed to help you learn. One of the best things about games in PowerPoint is that they are a lot more fun than a PowerPoint slideshow. Since most of the game play comes from PowerPoint, Microsoft has made some big changes. First off, it's no longer playing a version of Snakes and Ladders. You won't have a four-sided board filled with rectangular pieces. This game is simpler and easier to play and understand. As you play you'll get the chance to earn badges and unlock things like SpongeBob SquarePants or classic games like Red Rover. You can see that Microsoft has a lot of work to do before it can compete with the software we've already covered. But, we do think that the new game will be a great addition to your school's collection. In the meantime you can download the new Microsoft PowerPoint games here. So, if you're looking for a PowerPoint game that takes into account the needs of today's students, you might want to give the new game a try.
