In general, this is not only a .dll for Windows. And who said that this is only a .dll for Windows? This is a file that runs on another operating system, in this case Windows Server. The file itself does not say that it only works on Windows Server. It most likely works on any "Windows". But in the case of WinServer, it will only work on WinServer, because everything that works on WinServer also works on WinServer by default.
