
Limits Fits And Tolerances Nptel.pdf

!!TOP!!

So you can see that fits depend on the actual hole and/or shaft boundaries and can be divided into three main classes: (i). The gap fits. (ii). The gap is within tolerances, but in the future, its expansion may change the shape of the shaft. (iii) . Not suitable. If the hole assembly is larger than the fit, the shaft will not protrude over the hole, will not match the fit. To see what it looks like, compare the image above with the image shown in the picture above on the right. An important point: when you see that the fit is within tolerance, you should not necessarily expect to get a good fit.
