The Author and Publisher are from Jouko Komulainen and David Many people forget about the first days of Game Boy Advance. We all remember those days when the Gameboy was everywhere! When there were no other games on the market. A time when you could only buy a Gameboy and no other games. People remember those days because they are part of our childhood. But what a great childhood that is! The Gameboy was part of our childhood because it was simple and easy to use. In the arcade section of the shops there were few games for children. A Gameboy, some stickers, and that's it. And it was fun! We then moved on to an NES with much better games. The Gameboy Advance lives on in the Trainz collection because it is one of the first realistic railway games. There you go! A free DLC that you can download directly from Steam! There is no need to contact us at all to download the DLC, just follow the instructions in the installation guide and you'll be good to go. This DLC is located here: Credits The audio and music of this DLC is courtesy of: Hauppauge (Orchestral,

Features Key:

Seven uncommon NPCs that walk away on the streets of the Neverending Fair, each with their own quests
Rare boss enemies in nearly every area
Rare items to collect
Rare costumes to collect
Rare Flowers and decorations

As you travel about you may stumble on a palisade or visit a village, but more often than not some sort of piraat happened and the citizens have been taken over by NPCs who have marked them as Alluring, sometimes for devious or sadistic reasons.

Now it's your turn. Take on the role of a mysterious stranger looking for the last golden ticket, and you'll be charged with breaking into peoples' homes to collect their fortunes. Meet the people, search the houses, and seek out the oddest things you ever did a decorating. Collect the coins of unusual creatures, and try to decide which ones are worth the most. Do your good deed and keep the citizens happy - and beware the cruel traps you'll meet. Your quest will end when the ticket is yours, and only when you can bring yourselves a golden heart to exchange for the prize.

The Christmas Spirit is available only on PC and for the price of $19.99 + tax/VAT. This offer is available to customers from 1 December 2014 (Friday) to 24 December 2014 (Thursday). What's new:

Obviously, I travel for business and I love to meet other creatives. I'm lucky enough to work with some brilliant women who also love traveling. My first visit to New York was back in the 80s. I was 23 years old and badly jetlagged. It was pretty much the last straw and I never went back — until just a few weeks ago. I knew I had to get to New York sooner or later. And London looked good — I was getting married there this summer. But on the way to London, I made a little side trip into New York City. And I was completely hooked. I could see a vista that I would never see again. For some reason, I thought this would be like the first time I went to San Francisco. But this time, there were lots of people — and not just people I knew. I made contact with a New York artist who knew a lot about London. But I didn't know much about New York. I looked it up the next night, thinking I would discover an amazing new place that was only a few hours away by air. I mean, who wouldn't go with London versus Italy? But the New York I found when I arrived was totally unexpected. And totally fabulous. NY has a real energy. I could really feel it on the streets, on the subway and in the restaurants. I caught glimpses of almost two-dozen interesting people from different walks of life at different times of day. It was a vibrating canvas of inspiration rather than a sterile workplace. It was worldly. It was romantic. Add to that a lively, no-bullshit community of hustlers and flower children, and you realize the place is something else. I actually checked the airlines in New York because I had a fear that one trip into town and I'd never be able to get out. But the flight into New York was on a remarkable day where the clouds were parting and the sun was blazing. It seemed like a good omen. I arrived around 5:00. There were a lot of people waiting for the 7:00 flight. But it really had a more relaxed atmosphere than I expected. I had few problems getting a reservation at that time and for the price I wanted. I had observed that the women travelers had a lot of luggage. So while waiting, I
