When you visit a web page, the internet connection won't be very fast and even on a LAN, it will be slow. When you work with a lot of apps at the same time, you'll see the same thing. Most of the time, your connection will be very slow and you need to wait for your browser to load the page that you are currently working with. The Internet Connection Monitor is a full-screen application that will monitor your connections and will tell you what you need to know. First of all, a tutorial will help you to get familiar with the application and how to use it, so you can start right away. On the left, there is an overview of the connections you have, so you can always know if you're connected to the internet or are offline. On the right, you'll have your current active and total downloads, so you can see if you have a fast connection or are experiencing performance issues. In the following tab, you will have the list of your connections and their speeds. You can always click on them and get more information about them. If you hover your mouse over a specific connection, you will get the following details: - Latency - the amount of time it took for the internet connection to get the data that you requested - Download Speed - the data that you got from the internet connection - Upload Speed - the data that you sent to the internet connection In addition, the application will also tell you when your connection is unstable. The last tab will explain when your connection is unstable and how to fix it. Multi-Monitor Summary: Display resolution monitors show the visual quality of a monitor by setting its specific resolution. Instead, the Multi-Monitor Summary lets you change the display resolution of your screen on each monitor of your computer. The following display configurations are supported: - Display mode set manually: a resolution of 1920x1080 and 1920x1200 pixels with set manually enabled. - Set based on Display mode: choose a specific display mode for each monitor and each display mode will be set by its specific resolution. - Resize all monitors: if some of your monitors are different sizes, the application will resize them to the best fit. The application also has a memory monitor which will tell you what your active programs and their RAM usage are. How to use it: 1 - First, you need to install the Multi-Monitor Summary. You can download it from GitHub repository and extract the archive. 3a67dffeec

Vizion allows you to create multiple working environments on your computer in order to protect your data from potential threats. The program allows you to separate important business data by creating an isolated environment that is protected from viruses and other malware. The interface of the program is easy to use and requires no knowledge in security or programming. You can simply create the environments and switch between them with just a few clicks. Creating and managing multimedia collections can be done with the help of a specialized cataloging application, like Cool Movie Browser. Nonetheless, this particular utility aims to bring a bit more than the usual content aggregator and provide some extra functions that will be appreciated by most users. Through a nice and simple interface, this software solution is able to scan and group all your video files, no matter the location where they are stored. There is also support for playlists, so you can add several files to such a list and play them in sequence. Each title in your list can be played with a single click and there's a neat feature that allows yo to assign a certain player for a specific file extension. For instance, you can have Windows Media Player as the default player for AVIs and VLC for MPEG movies. The fans of online television will be glad to discover that Cool Movie Browser is equipped with several modules that allow them to connect to the preferred channel and view it inside the application. Created just for the sports aficionados, the 'Live Sport' section hosts dozens of channels which cover may popular sports. The support for various online video sharing services is one of the strong points of this tool. You can browse the available clips and play them through the internal viewer of Cool Movie Browser. Alternately, the search function will make it possible for you to locate the videos you want to see. There is a bit of everything for everyone inside this software and if there weren't any glitches in operating it or missing channels, this would be quite an appealing utility. It may be easy to use, but it often lacks agility and the playback is not as smooth as it should be. A: Hyperdock is a UWP control that mimics the look and feel of OS X's dock. Using a series of black and white icons, digital notebook is a note-taking application with a unique approach to displaying notes. It does not use cards, but uses a series of digital icons to represent notes. Features: • Columns that display icons • Panning through information • Configurable color display • Tags The notebook operates on the assumption that if you need information from your past to assist you in the present then it will be stored somewhere. Because of this, the notebook's interface is laid out in the form of a notebook with several pages, each containing small groups of icons. It's similar to what you find on your calendar, and you can quickly pan through the pages to get to the information you need. You can also tag or color-code the icons, and it's easy to drag an icon to any other tag. To view the notebook you can use a quick search, or easily access the notebook's Info center for more details. The notebook will also allow you to add images and text, and convert to PDF and HTML format on-the-fly. This feature is useful when you're trying to share the notes with someone else, and they don't have digital note-taking software installed. Stellar Control Center v1.0 is a simple, easy-to-use Mac utility which allows you to share control between multiple Mac devices and computer. By setting the application's preferences, you can determine which Mac devices you want Stellar Control Center to control and which users can access the control center. For example, you may want to set up automatic control center access to a particular user. Or, you may want to allow other users to access the control center when an application or the screen saver is active, regardless of who is logged into the computer. Built-in controls will let you control your Macs from a remote control device, like a TV remote. For Mac users that are remotely trying to use an Apple TV, this application offers a simple way of controlling iTunes by using the remote control device. Features include: A simple, yet powerful remote control access Bookmarks and information of which Mac users currently have access Utility Stellar Control Center v1.0 is distributed as a single executable file. It does not require any installation and can simply be ran from the installation folder without any setup, after which it will provide you with a new remote control access. The application is delivered with no specific account information and
