* Lightroom:

Lightroom is a swanky photo editing software that runs on Apple and Windows computers. It enables you to sort, edit, and organize images. It also has a lot of features for manipulating images and can be used to make prints. * Free

Photoshop: Free

Photoshop is a rival of Photoshop. It's created by Adobe but doesn't offer the same features that are in the standard version. It does, however, allow you to do the same things as Photoshop in the same layers. * GIMP: GIMP is an open source alternative to Photoshop. It doesn't have the full set of features that Adobe offers but is similar enough that you can use this tool as a replacement for Photoshop. ## Making Your Own Photo Looks Great It doesn't cost much to improve the quality of your photos. Try using these techniques to refine your photos: * Get a photo enlarger and an automatic developing device if you're serious about creating professional-looking prints. * Spend a couple of hours experimenting with different camera settings. While you are at it, practice making compositions and play with color and contrast. Don't worry about being too creative or experimental. Just make some mistakes, because any mistake can be fixed.

- * Use light-reducing filters on bright images. *

Exposure does not have to equal visual style.

Experiment with color and contrast until you get the look you want. * Delete unwanted elements. * Let the camera do some of the work. A computer can do much more than a human brain. * Remove red eye. * Have fun. ## Helping Your Photos Look Better You don't have to spend a lot of money to improve a poor image, as the following list indicates:

- * Invest in a good tripod. *
- Buy and use a good lens. *
- Invest in a tripod. *
- If you have a smartphone, take some self-portraits — or better yet, record a movie and take still photos from the video. *
- If you're using a camera phone, set the brightness to auto. *
- Open an image in your favorite photo editing software. *
- Zoom in and crop the

Remove red eye. * Clean up a mess. * Remove the background. * Work on it on a color screen.

The most important thing you need to know about the upcoming presidential election is that it is a fraud. This is being widely admitted. If you do not believe that, here is what you need to do. First, decide how to vote. If you believe that your vote matters, this will probably influence your decision. If you don't believe it matters, you may want to vote for peace and justice. But even if you have less than these aims, by voting for the lesser evil, you may at least stop the greater evil. If you decide not to vote (or to vote for a third party), this is the most important reason. The media will decide not to report on it. So if you are dumb enough to trust the media, at least you will have the satisfaction of knowing you did not create your own democracy. If you decide to vote, decide the issue which you believe most strongly. If you're like most people, you won't be able to do this; one view will be more strongly held than the other. But try anyway. If you really cannot decide on a particular issue, then write down your own thought. You may want to put it in a diary if you believe that free speech is under attack, but you should put it down nonetheless. You can then look back on it later. If it is right, then you will learn to trust your own judgement more than that of the media, politicians and the "news". You will realise that most of the important decisions you have to make about your life are not made by the media or the government, but by yourself. If you don't believe this, you should either give up reading the media and going to movies, or learn to think for yourself. Some people will think that it is immoral to vote for a candidate who you know is corrupt, etc., etc., but really it is the opposite of this. If people believe that the election is fair, they will be less likely to reject it. You will realise that the candidates are being put up as front men for the power elite. So, even if you decide not to vote, it will still be better to vote for the lesser evil than for the greater evil. As for the media, it is hard to know whether it is lying or telling the truth. However, those in the media will say that they are telling the truth. So it is not

What's New In?

Barcelona left-back Dani Alves has praised star striker Luis Suarez for his adaptation to life in Spain. Luis Suarez has scored 14 goals in just 12 appearances for Barcelona since moving from Anfield in 2014. And Argentina international Dani Alves says he has no doubt he could have done the same at the Camp Nou. "The great thing about Suarez is that he is already here," he told Chilean newspaper El Diario Deportes. "He came to Barcelona and adapted to the clásico and [kept] a level of aggression." The 29-year-old's form at Liverpool and with the national team led Barcelona's sporting director Eric Abidal to turn down the club's offer of a new contract in 2010. He moved to England and was soon followed by Suarez, his new strike partner at Liverpool. Alves revealed the pair have been friends for many years. "We knew each other when he was playing in Brazil and we would talk a lot," he added. "He came to Barcelona and everything worked out well. We have a great friendship." Luis Enrique's decision to play the Uruguay international in a withdrawn role ahead of Messi and Neymar at left-back has been highly controversial. However, Alves does not believe it is a bad idea, arguing it is a lesson to Messi and Neymar. "You cannot judge a player who has two or three months of experience playing there by some rulebook. "Luis Enrique is showing them that they can play in defence too and that with Neymar and Messi, it is more difficult to get them the ball than against other attackers." Alves has won everything with Barcelona and he believes the side remain the greatest in the world. "We are the best and have never won the Champions League without scoring," he said. "When I was at Barca the best, and the one that was the most complete, was Luis Enrique."1.
