The New Document dialog box has many options, including these: Blank in Photoshop CMYK – Blank is a color mode that is the same as printing-industry standard CMYK. Size Show Image Options Color Palette Background Resize to Fit Resolution Alpha Channel Photoshop Elements To create a new image, go to File > New. As shown in this image, the New dialog box has many different options. You can select a size from the Size drop-down menu and also choose a resolution. You might also need to choose an image format, such as .png, .jpg, or .tif. The New Document dialog box lets you change the size of the image on the canvas as well as create and change a new image. You can also change the resolution of the image. The Resolution option will let you choose the smallest unit of measurement that your photo is going to be displayed on. A pixel is a single color unit of measurement and a pixel is the smallest unit that your computer monitor or camera's viewfinder displays. Resolution settings include 640 x 640, 640 x 480, 800 x 05a79cecff

When Apple reportedly ends the year with about $250 billion in cash, it's almost certain that CEO Tim Cook will reward shareholders by increasing the size of the company's stock buyback program. But on Wednesday, an independent Twitter user revealed a massive screenshot of Apple's buyback plan that details the mysterious Apple.com file, which reveals that Apple intends to repurchase at least $13 billion in stock this year. Apple filed for an SEC and IRS Form 4 with the SEC on Jan. 14, 2017 — the day before Cook outlined plans to return $100 billion to shareholders. According to a report in The Wall Street Journal, the company is returning the buybacks in preparation for its fiscal fourth quarter, which usually ends the first week of March. "This filing has been spotted by someone with a security clearance," said CIOL reporter Jonathan Wojcik. He added that it is fairly unusual for an SEC filing to include a.com domain. The document, including this stock repurchase plan, was posted to the file sharing website It has now been removed from Apple.com, but was saved by The Verge, which posted the entire file on Twitter. The version on Apple.com seems to have been cached, and is protected by a password. An Apple spokesman said the company did not authorize the "transfer or upload" of the company's plan, which was posted in error. The company is now investigating how it happened. The document is likely to be discovered by Apple security researchers and is already on a file-sharing site that is easily accessible to the public. Cook said on Wednesday that he has called executives at "every major U.S. carrier" to "create an environment" where "mobility is not a luxury, but a necessity." He continued, "For too long, we've been used as the whipping boy of the industry. That's not going to continue."/***

An in vitro evaluation of the efficacy of antimicrobial agents against spirochetes isolated from naturally infected animals. The in vitro efficacy of 11 antimicrobial agents against spirochetes isolated from bovines, cervids, dogs, equines, rabbits, and roe deer was evaluated. Sixty-five spirochete isolates were obtained from cases of spirochetosis in each of the animal species and were subjected to antimicrobial susceptibility testing. An antimicrobial agent was considered to be effective when its minimum inhibitory concentration (MIC) was 17A One in Every 100 Births Is by Caesarean Section A new U.S. study finds that 1 in 100 births is by C-section. Maternal risk factors are associated with increased risk of undergoing a C-section. C-section births are associated with increased risk of future cardiovascular and metabolic diseases. FRIDAY, Nov. 24, 2019 (HealthDay News) — One in every 100 births is now by C-section in the United States, according to a new U.S. study. Over the past few decades, the number of cesarean deliveries has risen at an alarming rate. In 2016, the U.S. rate of C-sections was 32%, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. The U.S. rate of C-section births was at only 19% in 1970. Researchers speculated that the increase in C-sections was due to the fact that women were asking their doctors for them more often. But the numbers climbed steadily after that, according to the study. In 2016, more than 1 in every 100 births was by C-section in the United States. While the C-section rate is high, the
