Arnold Lake is Tennessee's largest natural lake with a private resort community surrounding it. Arnold and his friends have decided to introduce a new public fishing experience for their visitors, with a whole new range of fishing opportunities. Seasonal offers are available for groups of up to 20 who want to enjoy the sunny days of the summer! Rainbow River - 1000 acres of river to explore The Rainbow River is a waterway in the foothills of the Smoky Mountains, in eastern Tennessee. It is classified as a National Wild & Scenic River and attracts visitors from all over the country to hike and explore. Legend of the Argonauts - 16 days of fishing on three continents The Argonauts are tired of being a myth, and want to live the life they were destined for. So they use potions to transform themselves into animals of the three continents, the top predator of each of those continents, and live the life of that creature. The unique and memorable watercrafts they use allow them to cross the oceans in search of adventure. "A 'hot date' means that it is casual and doesn't have to be anything formal. It could be coffee or drinks, a movie or a play, dinner and dancing, museum or library or even a park. As long as he takes you to a place you want to go and he is also willing to do whatever for you." Vandenberg said that when it comes to dating on a budget, it can be important for men to take charge and look for free (and fun) things to do, even when women are paying for dinner. "Why is that a burden? Why do we assume that women spend more or should do more on dates?" she wrote. "If you want a date and he wants a date, then you should do something to make it memorable for both of you. Think about it and don't put it on him because when you do he will get frustrated and you may lose him." But of course, it's not always that easy. "I believe that men need a good c9d1549cdd

the Truth Join the fight to protect D.C.'s orcas and sea lions. 2367 Orcas and sea lions call D.C.'s Anacostia home. This is where they were born, grow up, love and mate, and give birth to their young. But for centuries orcas and sea lions have lived at the confluence of the Anacostia River and its tributaries. Now the biggest threat to their survival and the lives of their young is the James River, which threatens to flood the confluence at over twice the capacity of a 100-year flood. Orcas and sea lions face a possible future with a river that becomes 2x the capacity of 100-year flood. Join the fight for orcas and sea lions and help us end the threat to their home. Learn more about orcas and sea lions Orcas and sea lions live in the Anacostia River watershed in D.C., along the James and Potomac rivers. This is where they were born, grow up, love and mate, and give birth to their young. Orcas and sea lions face the threat of a river floodplain that is twice the size of a 100-year flood. The James River construction contract would flood the confluence of the Anacostia and Upper Potomac Rivers. Orcas and sea lions do not currently survive in the 100-year flood plain of the James and Potomac rivers. The James River ad hoc floodplain will significantly reduce the amount of a 200-year flood that reaches the confluence. The level of the James River at the confluence will be at least 10 feet higher than the historic record. City of D.C. does not currently plan for James River work to flood the confluence or increase the James River flood plain there. The James River construction contract is a serious threat to orcas and sea lions and their habitat that has not been assessed by a federal agency. D.C. is not legally required to enforce listing requirements for sea lions and orcas. The James River or Ad Hoc floodplain would not have
