The Pen Tool helps create and shape objects in a document. It works by drawing lines to define where something should be moved. It can also be used to paint, draw boxes, and create strokes. The Magic Wand can be used to select similar-colored areas of an image. In the Photoshop CS6 collection, the Magic Wand is a new feature named Similar. The Refine Edge and Refine Path are additions to CS6's Content-Aware Crop. The Crop tool is a new addition in Photoshop CS6. It can be used to make your image fit to a frame, while keeping an aspect ratio. The 3D tools are useful for both elements in a scene and even creating entirely new 3D objects. The Liquify tools allow you to manipulate an object on an image. It's useful for making the edges of an object more prominent. The Blur/Sharpen tools, found under Filters, can be used to improve the appearance of a photograph. Sharpening brings out the details in a document, while blurring is used to soften a picture and make it look more surreal. The Sharpen tool can also be used as a basic Noise Reduction filter. The Fuzzy Select tool makes it easy to extract information from images. It works by picking up colors from areas of an image and highlights those items in a different color. For example, it can be used to extract and edit images of text. The Gradient tool allows for easy manipulation of gradients and background patterns. The effect of different cutoff values for predicting paroxysmal nocturnal haemoglobinuria: experience from a single center. To evaluate the value of specific clinical, hematological and genetic parameters in predicting the diagnosis of paroxysmal nocturnal haemoglobinuria (PNH), which can be helpful in the early diagnosis of patients. We included 21 patients with a confirmed diagnosis of PNH and compared their results with the results of a control group. Laboratory, hematological and genetic parameters were analyzed in both groups to determine the relationship between specific parameters and PNH. Clinical features were observed in PNH patients including a tendency to develop malignancies. The abnormal aspect of red cell morphology in hematological parameters in PNH patients included an increased percentage of normocytes, and abnormal surface morphology including microvesicles. The frequency of chromosome 22q was higher in PNH patients than the control group. Specific parameters associated with the presence of PNH were hemolysis, reticulocytosis, abnormal morphology, and increased % of normocytes, while the use of high cutoff values for low Hb, Ht and Hb-Ht may increase the specificity of the test. Specific parameters may predict the diagnosis of PNH in patients.Q: What is the relation between the sparsity of the inverse of the matrix and the norm of the matrix? I am stuck on the following question (question is on the left, my answer is on the right): Let  $A \in \mathbb{R}^{m \times n}$  and  $A^$  be the matrix inversion of  $A$ . Prove that  $\|A^\|_2 \leq \|A\|_2^{-2}$ . My attempt at the question: For a fixed  $i$ , we have that
$$A_{i \cdot}^* = \sum_{j=1}^m A_{i,j} \setminus A^*_{\cdot i} = \frac{1}{\sqrt{m}} \sum_{j=1}^m \frac{A_{i,j}}{\sqrt{A_{i,j}}} \setminus = \frac{1}{\sqrt{m}} \sum_{j=1}^m$$
