In Russia, there have been many stupid ideas (на), people have stopped using wheat and are eating rice. I don't know what "на" actually is. Does it mean "these", "such as" and other? A: This is a long-established idiom НА области знаний. It means something like "In the area of knowledge", literally "in the area of [a set of related] wisdom". As usual with idioms, there is no exact translation, but you probably want to understand it as "the area of [something]" and that's something you would not say exactly in Russian. A: Although you may not say this in Russian, the meaning of the idiom itself is evident. "на" is not a synonym, it means "with" or "by means of" Indoor air pollution: a review of the main sources. Indoor air quality is the most important environmental parameter affecting human health. Indoor air pollution can be classified into two main categories: endogenous compounds and exogenous compounds. Sources of different types of pollutants such as tobacco smoke, dust, bacteria, and humidity are described in detail. Research on the potential environmental effects of Preserves the files, folders, users, etc.Q: How does the "increment operator" for enumerables work? Examples I've found say you could implement a "sum" function like so: var sum = { 'zero':0, 'one':1, 'two':2, 'three':3, 'four':4, 'five':5 }; var doubleSum = sum['one'] += sum['two']; However, when I try to use that, all I seem to get is the result from var sum = { 'zero':0, 'one':1, 'two':2, 'three':3, 'four':4, 'five':5 }; var doubleSum = sum['one']; I'm not sure how it happens that a function can be invoked against a key and it returns the value for the numeric literal. I think it's just a magic part of the language, but is there a way to write it so that I could do this: var sum = { 'zero':0, 'one':1, 'two':2, 'three':3, 'four':4, 'five':5 }; var doubleSum = sum['one']; ? A: One way to approach this is by using dynamic property access: var sum = { 'zero': 0, 'one': 1, 'two': 2, 'three': 3, 'four': 4, 'five': 5 }; var doubleSum = sum['one'] += sum['two']; Use a function like this: function asNum(string){ return parseInt(string,10);} or function asNum(string){ return parseFloat(string);} or function asNum(string){ b7e8fdf5c8
