Unfortunately, it is very often diagnosed too late (between 40--60% of cases), and only approximately 50% of affected patients are treated for PAD in Europe. The endothelin axis plays an important role in the pathogenesis of PAD. The etiology of PAD is poorly understood, but several mechanisms including chronic inflammation, thrombosis, and oxidative stress are considered to be involved. Thus, we aimed to assess if the use of melatonin, a well-characterized antioxidant molecule, might improve the outcome of therapeutic options in PAD. Methods ===== We reviewed the English-language literature through PUB
