Field of the Invention The present invention relates to an ink jet head, and more particularly, to a wide ink jet head that can eject a large amount of ink. 2. Description of the Related Art Ink jet heads for use in ink jet printers eject ink droplets from their nozzles when vibrated by pressure caused by the displacement of piezoelectric elements or the like. For example, ink jet heads with a configuration where longitudinal vibration is produced by a plurality of piezoelectric elements arranged side by side and ink droplets are ejected from their nozzles by causing the longitudinal vibration of the piezoelectric elements are known. On the other hand, many of recent ink jet printers adopt a wide ink jet head with a width as large as more than 10 mm. In such a wide ink jet head, ink droplets are ejected from its nozzles by vibrating the head in a sweeping manner perpendicular to the direction of arrangement of the nozzles. It is to be noted that the following description will be directed to a wide ink jet head of the
