Deciphering receptor binding modes in the presence of crystal packing interactions. Ligands of an elusive protein receptor, the orphan G protein-coupled receptor (GPCR) GPR14, are considered potential therapeutics for the treatment of metabolic disorders. However, structural information for GPR14 is still lacking. Here we report the structural characterization of the extracellular domain of GPR14 (GPR14e) in complex with two compound classes, bispiperidines and benzodiazepines, which were identified by experimental screening. The analysis of the cocrystal structures reveals a new binding mode of GPR14 that involves intramolecular ligand-protein interactions and that accounts for the well-known effects of crystal packing on ligand binding. --- name: Bug report about: Create a report to help us improve title: " labels: 'Bug: ' assignees: " --- Describe the bug A clear and concise description of what the bug is. To Reproduce Steps to reproduce the behavior: 1.
