A: 32GB RAM is plenty, and as long as you are running windows, a 8Gb swap space will be adequate. The 128GB SSD will not hurt performance unless you are running a very large number of VMs. I have used 4x2TB and 2x512GB in the past for VMs, but the hard drive configuration will depend on your requirements. A 2GHz dual core i5 or similar would not be too fast for the machine you are looking at, and you could also get a quad core i7 or two 2GHz cores for faster performance. I'd recommend a discrete graphics card as well if you are doing lots of graphics work. A: If you are planning to run any game on the macbook, you need to have a spare 6gb ram. Q: Java, android file system : how to change icon on emulator? I have read this page but it is too complicated and not informative. does anyone have any tips? I think this is simple : I have one image in the res/drawable folder named images.png I would like to set it as the launcher icon on the emulator. I am using Eclipse and the Android Developer Tools. A: Put the image you want to use into the res/drawable directory. That image will be used for every build of the app that has that image. In the Run Configurations window there is an option for Application icon, use that to select the image you just created. On the face of it, your visit to our website should be safe.
