However, by using various new web technologies, Adobe has now brought a public beta of Photoshop to the web. On May 12, the Company plans to release Photoshop version 2019 (dated July 2019) in the Beta version of the Creative Cloud app for Windows, macOS, and Linux. I'll admit, I dropped Photoshop a while ago. Mostly because I feel like most moving pictures are too simple (and in the case of video, shot in a boring / standard frame rate)... The other new feature from Photoshop 2018 is In-Place Adjustment. In a world where entire images get touched up and edited live, In-Place Adjustment takes us back to the times where we used to work hard on one or two layers and let it live. With this, you can choose an adjustment layer, alter its settings and then hit the scale or crop tool to tweak its settings. Using this feature will not remove the original adjustments, but it will change their settings, which will update the adjustments in the edited layer so that all editing remains intact.
